It her pocket, arranged her skirts and stared never fails in a single instance, and as a soothing syrup, it acts with equal certainty, being far superior to any other in use. Mothers should bear this in mind. Sold by all merchants and druggists.

A Remarkable Result.

It makes no difference how many Physicians, or how much medicine you have tried, it is now an established fact that German Syrup is the only remedy which has given complete satts faction in severe cases of Lung Diseases. It is true there are yet thousands of persons who are predisposed to Throat and Lung Affections, Consumption, Hemorrhages, Asthma, Schere Colds settled on the Breast, Pheumonia Whooping Cough, de., who have no personal knowledge of Boschee's German Syrup. To such we would say that 50,000 dozen were sold last year without one complaint. Consumptives try just one bottle. Regular size 78 cents. Soid by all Druggists in America. Oct. 13, '77-1y.

Scribner for April.

Of the eighty cuts in Scribner for April, twenty-three are devoted to the illustration of life and sport Among the Thousand Islands, sunique summer resort, and one which, it is believed, has never been previously described in the magazines. The text, all of the original sketches, and most of the wood-drawings are by Howard Pyle, who has already written and drawn for the Scribner publications. Mr. obliging and sang a simple little baliad, George B. Prescott, Electrician of the Western in which the wors of the poor was affect Union Telegraph Company, writes of The Telephone and the Phonograph, with explana-tory cuts. The revival of Macrame Lace calls forth a little paper by Clarence Cook, which is illustrated with antique Italian and new American designs. This month's contribution to the "occasional papers on American sports" is a personal narrative of Deer-hunting on the Au Sable (Mich), by W. M. Laffan, who, like Mr. Pyle, has drawn his own illustrations. American industry of recent growth is deseribed by Julius Wilcox, in an illustrated paper—How Lead Pencils are Made—in which it is claimed that American machinery has rendered the home-made pencil superior to the foreign. This installment of Mr. Eggleston's Roxy has a novel drawing by Mr. Shirlaw, the President of the new Society of American

Of the unillustrated material, there are two short stories: One of the West-Two Saints of the Foot hills, by Bret Harte, said to be in his first and best manner; and one of the South-King David, by Constance F. Woolson. For peopte interested in the present Queen of Spain, or in convent school life at Paris, there are letters from an American schoolmate of Mercedes, entitled A Queen at School. Inher second paper in advocacy of Twenty-six Hours a Day, Mary Blake discusses the reason why women should cultivate habits of reading and study, and the difficulties to be overcome. Miss Trafton's serial, His Inheritance, changes scene to Massachusetts. C. B. Warring discusses the relations of the Mosaic Creation and Modern Science, maintaining that there is no important discrepancy between the two. The poetry is by Maurice F. Egau, Annie R. Annan, Mary Ainge De Vere, and others.
Topics of the Time contains discussions by Dr. Holland, entitled Acting under Excitement Onco poor the Transconder. ment, Once more the Tramp, and Falling from High Places. A new department for Com-munications is added—the letters this month being from Noah Brooks, with additional Lincoln anecdotes; and from George Rowland, who defends the Eric Canal from a recent attack in the Monthly. The Old Cabinet has brief essays on Art, Literature and the Drama. Home and Society has some timely Horticultural Suggestions from Mr. Quinu, and a chat about The French spoken by those who do Among the books reviewed are Joseph Cook's Transcendentalism, and Orthodoxy. The World's Work has notes on The Phonograph, Electric Gas-lighting, Improved Form of Sewer-gas Traps, etc., etc. Bric-a-Brac is given over to a piece of Irish dialect, which is already in demand for public readings—Biddy McGinnis at the Photogra-pher's. This number completes Volume XV. of the magazine, which is now half-way through its eighth year. The volume index has been enlarged to six pages, and appears with a new title page.

jolly all over. The other night, strolling down Baltimore street, the east wind bore to our cars the mingled strains of a piano, a hand organ, a violin, a harp and a human voice; the words of the latter were drowned by its accompaniments, and only served to more thoroughly mix things up. We looked ahead and saw a mixed crowd of fore a little two story house, whose front wall was hidden beneath huge sheets of canvass, on which was painted in glowidg colors facsimiles of the wonders to be flickering light o'er the painting, lighting up the features and forms of the fat girl and her brother, the fat boy; besides whom, the stout boy in Pickwick, would appear as though languishing in the last stage of consumption. It also cast its rays upon the picture of the Hindoo Snake Charmer, reclining in sumptuous case upon a rose covered couch, in dreamy lish. bliss, her eye-lids hiding the orbs that lay beneath them; whilst wrapped around green and gold, was an immense Cobra, that with arched neck and glittering eye, touched with its tongue the lips of the dreaming enchantress, and sucked the sweets therefrom; other reptiles crawled o'er her body and around the couch, and in the background stood a grove of tropical trees, in whose branches sundry monkeys and bright plumaged birds, were whirling away a portion of their allotted time. Another small picture of the fat boy completed the scenic arrangements. In the door way, through which all must pass and could pass for the small outlay of fifteen cents to see the originals, there

"boss" nudged the fat boy, who was asleep and woke him up. The Hindoo Snake Charmer, a prowsy headed young Miss of about thirty, lingered by the side of the young man who took your ticket to say a few more words, then she took a good look at us and leisurely walked behind a curtain that hid the rear of the room from our sight. A signal from the "boss" and the music stopped. He cleared his throat and taking a hasty look at us, began his descriptions of the wonders before us. The eight hundred and fifty pounds, comprising Mary Jane Powers, of Kentucky, stood up, when the "boss" pointed at her and began his ofcrepeated tale. With the grace of Monsieur Cartier, he glided from Miss Mary Jane to her brother, Master Johnny, who weighs a few hundred pounds less than his sister, which little difference he is fast reducing by adding to his own six hundred. "Johnny," said the "boss" is very playful," Johnny blushed at this illusion to his childish ways; "and he is very fond of singing," continued the head manager and he wound up by saying, "Johnny can't you sing us a song?" Johnny was ingly dwelt upon. Johnny hadn't an excellent voice; we would not care to hear Johnny sing again; yet he was so willing to add to our pleasure that we forgave him and blessed the tender hearted young lady who drowned most of the song by viciously thumping the piano. Phrough with Johany, the "boss" disappeared behind the curtain, behind which, the Hindoo Snake Charmer had previously disappeared. Miss Mary Jane improved the opportunity by selling unto the spectators a little pamphlet containing the biography of Johnny and herself. The reappearance of the manager stopped this little private enterprise and caused all to be silent. The lights were turned down and
